

To say that I admire and like you is very little, because a friendship like ours deserve more, deserve to be described at infinity so that everyone could understand what it really represents the life of every one of us do not know if I declare praise you or thank you. If I were to declare, I would say that without you in my way there would be many things to tell, if you honor, I would like to offer you the starlight and the path of the sun's heat and you'd be much more conscious of my gesture, but rather thank you, thank God for your friendship, tell him that was the best gift I received in my life, you are really an enlightened being who can bring the world a great charisma and great companionship, you represent nobility with the word friendship . Thank you for being part of my life!
