

I wondered what to say about friendship then I thought of my friends each and every one of his defects and qualities that distinguish them. in those small and big things that make them unique and special.

while those who are so different from us we always understand.

are those who always help us in difficult times.

we are also putting greens anger

There are those who are friends as a fiasco

There are those who betray us there are intellectuals which only by their presence give us peace we are also encouraging when everything is wrong are those who need pampering, and as we seek solace in times are those that are original

But also that every time you want us to look more

There are those who can pay us is the situation cual are those that show only a part of EU LOQ are those who always get what they want

There are those who mourn with us truths also operates the lie they are telling us not to suffer ourselves, without thinking about the damage that we do are always those who are willing to support a problem although this relates to them are those who always have something to tell are silent

those who do not speak much but his actions make elcorazon we are invading the house at any time without any notice

But they are also that one never realizes but ay not always see them podarmos happy day

jesica lopez